A real workhorse

The weed brush for paved areas - enemy of weed, friend of the environment

Another specialist has been added to the Egholm attachment programme. This weed brush was especially developed for weed control on paved areas such as paths, squares, roads, tiles, asphalt and the like - and even with an entirely environmentally clean conscience, because no pesticides are involved.

Environmentally visionary

There is hardly any doubt that the trend is ever greater tightening-up as far as the environment is concerned. The global awareness of the effect of toxic and waste substances on the environment is becoming ever more prevalent and, globally, leads to ever more regulations on which substances we are allowed to - and especially not allowed to - emit. Wide-ranging decisions to protect the environment are also made locally in an increasing number of municipalities. For this reason, it makes good sense to be prepared, as this weed brush is. It is able to declare itself entirely free of environmentally harmful effect and therefore meets the most stringent environmental regulations. We call it being environmentally visionary.

However, it is not only its environmental friendliness that makes this new weed control brilliant. This Egholm weed brush combats, sweeps and removes weeds on paved areas with one fell swoop.

This powerful steel brush rakes up the weeds and stresses any new sprouts. If the weed brush is combined with the suction sweeper hopper, you also sweep up the loose weeds, the seeds of the weeds and the fine layer of fertile soil.

The weed brush is fully hydraulically adjustable in all directions. Its heavy-duty steel brushes are adjusted from the driver's seat so that the pressure is either applied precisely where the weeds are firmly rooted or is evenly distributed across the paved surface.

The weed brush is gentle on the paving due to its hydraulic adjustment, the quality of the brush and the size of the machine.
